"I WOULD NOT DIE AT ALL."

I would not die in Spring-time,
When worms begin to crawl,
And cabbage plants are hatching up,
And frogs begin to croak.
Tis then the girls are full of charm,
And smile upon the men,
And lambs and peas are in their prime:
I would not perish then.

I would not die in Summer,
When the trees are full of fruit;
When the huntsman has his gun,
The little birds to shoot.
The girls then wear their blooming dress,
And half distract the men;
It is the time to "sweat it out":
I would not perish then.

I would not die in Autumn,
When new mown hay smells sweet,
And little pigs are rooting round
For something nice to eat.
'Tis then the huntsman's wild halloo
Is heard along the glen,
And oysters 'gin to fatten up:
I would not perish then.

I would not die in Winter,
When one might freeze to death;
When blustering Boreas sweeps around
And steals away one's breath.
When sleigh bells jingle horses snort;
And buck-wheat cakes are tall;
In fact, this is a right good world,
I would not die at all.
October 6th, 1869.

ATTEMPTED RAPE—FATE OF THE FIEND.

One of the boldest attempts at rape we have ever heard of was made near this place on Thursday last. A very respectable lady of this county and her daughter were coming to Somerset, on horseback, and when within about one and a half miles of town they were accosted by a negro, who seized the bride of the horse the young lady was riding and ordered her to get down. This she refused to do and struck him with her riding whip. The negro then seized hold of her and succeeded in pulling her off the horse and endeavored to drag her from the road. The mother dismounted and with a stick attempted to drive away the wretch, who was trying to drag her daughter into the bushes by the road side. Failing in this way to make him desist, she told him she was looking for her brother to come who would certainly kill him, and remarked that he was coming now, when the negro became frightened and ran off, and in this way no doubt a brutal outrage was prevented.

The two ladies then proceeded to town and related the occurrence, giving a description of the negro, which with other circumstances, caused suspicion to rest upon a negro boy named Wisdom Scott and on Thursday night he was arrested and placed in jail, and proved to be the guilty wretch. On Friday he was brought out for trial before Esquire George, and placed with a number of other negroes, but when the ladies appeared he was at once recognized and fully identified by them. There being no doubt of his guilt, he was bound over to Court, in default of bail was returned to jail for safe keeping.

There are about thirty prisoners confined in the jail, and it not being considered secure, for several weeks past a guard has been kept there at night. On Friday night a number of disguised persons, estimated at from twenty-five to forty, at a late hour of the night proceeded to the jail, captured the guard, caused the prison doors to be opened and the negro to be brought out, when they took charge of him, carried him away, and on Sunday he was found hanging by the neck to the limb of a tree in Hatchie bottom—a fate the fiend richly deserved.

We learn that a few weeks ago an elderly lady passed through Somerville on her way to Hardeman county, and when about half a mile from town on the Ball's road was dragged from her horse and an attempt made to outrage her person by a negro whose description was filled to the letter by this devil just hung, and upon two other occasions similar attempts are known to have been made by him. The general opinion, of both white and black, is that he but met his just deserts.

We are no advocate of lynch law, but the crime of rape has been of frequent occurrence of late years, and no matter who the party guilty of this heinous offence may be, whether white or colored, we have no word of condemnation for those who may rid the world of such a devil.—Som. Tenn. Falcon.

THE COOT.

From the Wilmington Journal.

This mysterious bird, the coot known to us, has excited much attention and comment. The question as to its identity, and to some extent its habits, has long been in dispute, many well informed persons totally disagreeing in important particulars. We know that it is found in our rice fields, along the banks and ditches and all of us have personal experience of the fact that they are exceedingly palatable as food, being esteemed second only to the rice bird in delicacy, and are even preferred by some persons.

In other and better days, "the rice field negro" (something which does not now exist) departed from the huntsman's method of securing the coot as game. Their plan was to beat the banks along which the birds lay at night, carrying lightwood torches—the light having the effect of blinding them. Switches were the only weapon used, and with these the coots were whipped over and killed. This is rendered easy by the fact that the coot seemingly has not the power of flying far, and is not very tenacious of life. There is an old tradition yet in existence that coots were originally frogs and that the season at which coots appear frogs pass through a state of transmigration and become in substance and to appearance coots. As strange as it might seem many persons even now adhere steadily to this theory. But as to the habits of this bird a friend well informed on the subject gives us the following description:

Our coot (rallus carolinus) has been confounded with the coot proper (rallus aquaticus) the latter being the same as what is known as the marsh hen of our coast. These weigh from 24 to 27 ounces each, while our common coot weighs but from 4 to 6 ounces when esteemed edible. The coot, that is commonly known to us, feeds principally on wild oats (holcus avenaceus) and rice and is the most inoffensive bird in existence. They are of the migratory class and known as the rail in Pennsylvania and the sora in Virginia. The female lays from 4 to 6 eggs of a dull speckled hue. When first hatched the young coot is black, but changes its plumage when about half grown to a dusky grey. Like the rice bird they also undergo a change of plumage as they emigrate from one climate to another.

JOSH BILLINGS PAPERS.

THE HORNET.

The hornet is an inflammable bugger, sudden in his impressions and hasty in his conclusion, or end.

His natural disposition is a warm cross between red pepper in the pod and fusil oil, and his moral bias is, git out ov mi way.

They have a long black body, deeviled in the middle by a waist pot; but their physical importance lays at the terminus of their sobriety, in the shape of a javeline.

This javeline is alwuz loaded, and stands redly to unload at a minute's warning, and enters a man az still az thought, az spry az lightning, and az full ov melanolly az the toothake.

Hornets never argy a case, they settle awl ov their differences ov opinyon by letting their javeline fly, and are az certain to hit az a mule iz.

This testy kitter lives in congregations numbering about one hundred souls, but whether they are male or female, or conservative, or matched in bonds ov wedlock, or whether they are Mormons, and a good many ov them kling together and keep one husband to save expense, I don't kno nor don't care.

I never have examined their habits much, I never considered it healthy.

Hornets bilt their nests wherever they take a noshun to, and seldom are disturbed, for what would it profit a man tew kill 99 hornets and have the one handreth one hit him with hiz javeline?

They bilt their nests ov paper, without enny windows to their or back doors. They hav but one place ov admission, and the nests iz the shape ov an overgrown pineapple, and iz cut up into just as menny bed rooms as their iz hornets.

It iz very simple to make a hornets nest ef yu kan, but i will wager enny man 300 dollars he kant bilt one that he could sell to a hornet for half price.

Hornets are az bizzzy as their second cuzzins, the bee, but what they are about the Lord only knows; they don't lay up enny honey, nor enny money, they seem to be bizzzy only jist for the sake ov working all the time; they are alwuz in as much ov a hurry az tho they waz going for a dokter.

The gentleman who published a card in this paper last week, enquiring after the truth, in the vexed question of Baptism, is informed that a pamphlet of 80 pages, entitled "A Defence of Presbyterian Baptism," being the substance of two Addresses on the subjects of "mode of Christian Baptism," by the Rev. H. B. Pratt, has been sent us by a gentleman in the town of Hillsboro' N. C. for the special benefit of our enquiring friend, who is requested to peruse it and return it to us to be sent back to the gentleman giving the "enquirer" all the necessary "light," involved in the matter. The document purports to be two discourses on Baptism by Rev. Mr. Pratt, a Presbyterian Missionary, in a discussion at Hillsboro' in 1868, on Baptism with the Rev. Mr. Pritchard, of the Raleigh Baptist Church, who dedicated a new Baptist church in Hillsboro' about that time and preached a sermon which the Rev. Mr. Pratt heard, that took ground against infant baptism, and assumed that immersion was the only mode of baptism. Rev. Mr. Pratt thereupon challenged him to a friendly discussion of these issues, and this pamphlet contains the substance of his remarks. "Enquirer" will please call and get it—read it and return it to us or the gentleman that sent, as he wishes it returned. We know nothing of its merits or demerits, not having read it and feel but little or no interest in the matter.

The Rev. Mr. Schell intimates to us that he will take no notice of "Enquirer's" card so long as he conceals his proper name.
[Milton Chronicle.]

GEN. GRANT AND THE HOLLY SPRING STOLEN SILVER WARE.

Introducing the old charge about Gen. Grant—or rather Mrs. Grant—taking silver ware from the Cox family, the Luka (Miss.) Gazette of the 25th says:

Seeing the following charges going the rounds of the newspapers, and Mrs. Brewer being at the Luka Springs under our treatment we read, them to her, and asked her if they were true. Mrs. Brewer said positively to us that Gen. Grant nor his wife never stole any silver ware from her or her father's house, nor did she ever accuse either of them of having done so. The silver card waiter, she says, was stolen by General Grant's body guard, before he arrived at the house, and the picture of Lady Annesly was stolen from the plantation, ten miles south of Holy Springs, by Federal soldiers. Now, we care very little for General Grant or his character, but we do honor the high position that he holds, and much more the character of his noble wife, which Mrs. Brewster declares never was suspected by her. On the other hand, she says she was a kind, generous lady, and treated her Mrs. B. with much civility and politeness while she occupied her father's house. We do hope that all those papers which have published the accusations against Mr. and Mrs. Grant will, as an act of justice, publish this. Politically, we are as much opposed to the President as any one in the Union can be, but we are willing to defend his character and that of his wife against a disgraceful and untruthful charge.

STATE FAIR.

We are pleased to learn from various sources, the great interest taken by our people in the approaching State Fair. A great many leading citizens in all sections have accepted the appointment of Judges in the competition for premiums, and those who decline, on account of the simultaneous happening of the terms of the Superior Courts in their counties, express the liveliest interest in the success of the Agricultural Society.

We commend the foresight and economy of fifteen citizens of Salem, who have already written to Dr. Smith, the Corresponding Secretary, to procure for them, good shelter, it being their intention to bring their lodging and provisions, and Board themselves. It is needless to say that the Doctor has accommodated them. The exhibition of articles will be good. We are gratified to hear that Edgecombe will compete with Mecklenburg with a bale of cotton, and we hope some of our Wake friends will not decline the challenge.

The Fair will begin on the 19th of October.—Raleigh Sentinel.

A sad story comes to us from the nation's Capitol, it seems that considerable feeling has been created there by the death of a woman who was a clerk in the Internal Revenue Bureau, who was suffering from typhoid fever, and remained at her work until she had to be almost carried home. She was poor, and the fear of being docked for lost time impelled her to remain on duty until she was so far gone that her recovery was out of the question. The story is told in the same breath that gives the account of the President's return from his pleasure trips to the watering places, for which his wages were not "docked."—Examiner.

VA. LEGISLATURE.

This body is now in session. Sitting tied. Answering every demand of our masters in Washington like good and meek servants. They have already passed the 14th and 15th amendments and are smiling in readiness to do whatsoever else it seemeth right and proper unto our masters. And yet the adherents of Wells in that body are not satisfied. Their craws are as hard to pack full as their carpet bags.

An old doctor in Savannah sends us a Chill Advertisement. "A firm in Boston sends a Cheap Goods advertisement. And an enterprising young man in New York "wants to know our terms." Lord, how this world is given to lying! Somebody start a lottery, or buy some painted jewelry, or catch a wild man, or start a newspaper agency, or set up a singing school. We want a place.

THE FAIR.

We acknowledge an invitation to attend the fair at Richmond on the 2nd November. It will be worth attending—certain. The sturdy yeomanry of all parts of the country will be in attendance. Horace Greeley says he is going. Let's all go. Some of our citizens have already declared their intention to attend.

North Carolina is now reconstructed. She is now in the Union.

There is the best part of her noble sons who since the war have been thrust out of the back door of public honors.

They have been voting, it may be, when election day comes round, for other people who were at home "sitting 'em in while they themselves were at ease.

Don't forget these men!

They fought for you. They fought for your women and children. They took the mud, blood, disease, and famine. The men that surrendered with Robert E. Lee are to be trusted. And were we monarch of a thousand crowns with tens of millions of bright jewels—we'd save each crown for a head that passed under the yoke at Appomattox Court House. God bless 'em.

PRINCIPLE.

The "policy" press of this State must stop their gyrations. Principle's the thing.

A man that thrusts aside principle for the nonce and says, "it's policy,"—he won't do to trust. His backbone will break like a dry stick if ever the pressure's brought to bear. What is policy? It is the desertion of the glory that tints the sunset of our fallen brave. It is the swearing false to the manhood within us. It is the kissing of an enemy. The caressing of a cold brute that scratches in the ashes of our misfortune to flinch our buried honors. It is an acknowledgement of the box-head negro as our superior. It is defiling our garments in the muck of cowardice and base born humility. It is flat belied submission.

What is principle? It is a surrender of strength—but a holding the faster to honor. It is putting the fist into the blaze—but never flinching or begging while the fire burns and the skin sizzles. It is TRUTH.

Then let our platform be PRINCIPLE. It is bound to win. Not all the kitchen furniture and penitentiary capital in America turned loose upon it at one time can conquer it. For ourselves we are determined—let the rest do as they may—never to vote for any man for any office who acknowledges and concedes to the negro the right to hold office.

John Wall while working on a house in Lynchburg was severely burnt by casting a bucket of water into a barrel of unslackened lime. The contact of the water and lime was followed by an explosion which burst the barrel into a thousand pieces and seriously injured Mr. Wall.

The Montgomery papers chronicle a riot at Wilson's Station, on the Montgomery and Eufaula Railroad. Two negro men attacked Mr. Charles McDade, and the latter killed one of them with a knife. McDade then surrendered himself, and while on trial before an examining court, the negroes broke up the court, and by last accounts held McDade and the sheriff beleaguered in a house which they were threatening to burn. The sheriff was anxiously awaiting the arrival of a detachment of troops which had been sent to take him and his prisoner out of the hands of the infuriated Africans.

An old man buried.

If any of our old women want to buy an "old time" tea urn—we have it. It was no doubt sold by some old Scotch merchant long before the revolutionary war. The thing is shaped like a goose and holds its head away up yonder like an aristocratic old lady in a black silk dress. It is a hundred years old. And where do you reckon we got it? Down 7 feet in the ground. It happened thus: Capt. Berry in digging a foundation for the new store he is erecting struck upon a rich soft soil that led him down into a well constructed cavern where were found old champagne bottles, wine glasses of the finest and most beautiful cut glass, and china ware of the most delicate and variegated tints. Right near the spot once stood the Headquarters of the Provisional Government in 1776-75. It is probable they might have dug the cave to hide valuable papers—as during the war the Tories were continually dashing in on them. We can't say who dug the cave, but they might have left one of those champagne bottles loaded with the "spirit of '76."

where?

In referring to the original subscription list of our paper—just fifty years ago—we find the names of the following gentlemen from abroad: Thomas W. Holden, at Milton; (the father of Governor Holden); Francis C. Roston, at Wilmington; Henry C. Moore at Charlottesville (Va.); Dr. E. L. Degraffenreid at Fayetteville; and Hon. Charles Fisher, Salisbury. All dead we reckon.

Run, Nigger Run.

We understand that a negro meeting was unceremoniously broken up the other night near Mebaneville in Alamance. They were all kneeling; and the preacher he prayed for an army dressed in white to come down from the skies and to have white beads and a sword a yard long and to scatter the ku klux and rebels like leaves before a kick up or—amen—er—when!—there stood a dozen men as white as napkins and as tall as flag poles with white beads wrapped around them—the ku klux. And it came to pass that there was no more preaching to that congregation for the space of several days. For that was "run, nigger, run,"—every fellow toddling in the direction his face set while he was on his knees.

Necessity an Inventor.

The jail in this place is considered one of the safest in the State. And yet—but for the active surveillance of the Sheriff—5 prisoners confined in one of the cages would have gotten out on Thursday night. They had straightened out an old tin pint cup and made a saw of it, and had sawed to the outer wall through a plank four inches thick. They had made a good strong rope out of old blankets and were just ready to let themselves down through a hole made in the wall. They were moved to another cell.

A Dirty Thing.

The Revenue Officers have lately been on the "grand rounds" in the vicinity of Cedar Grove. Some white sneek who loved the reward of fifty cents more than he feared to bear false witness reported Messrs Corbin, Lindsay, Allen, and Vincent, as having blockade tobacco stored away in some of the most prominent citizens' cars in the county. An investigation was at once demanded by these clever tax-collectors and the revenue officers were allowed to make search. Messrs Parish and Hobgood—the officers—deported themselves as gentlemen through the whole affair. Nothing was found of course.

Broke open.

From our Milton correspondent. In Halifax county, Virginia, last Saturday night, the kitchen of Mason Warren was broken open and five bushels of wheat, a lot of beef, and some wearing apparel were stolen.

Yanceyville.

From our special correspondent. Last Monday a lot of one acre of land with a brick house on it and a good well of water sold at auction for $770 to S. P. Hill in the town of Yanceyville.

The Right Way.

There is a right way, boys, and then there's a wrong way. We knew a poor boy once who came from the country to live in a store in town. The town boys called him "green" and he was "green." But he didn't mind that. He stuck to that store; didn't drink, wouldn't say bad words, but he just did everything his employer told him, even to pick up chips, bring water, make fires, and run on errands. And he was regular at Sunday school. That boy is now thriving man at the head of one first tobacco house in Georgia. He went in the right way. We knew another. He was rich, and just as smart as could be. Everybody said he would make such a great man. He learned to drink liquor and to curse. The boys thought that smart, and he thought so too. But now he is a miserable man without a cent to his name and his home is the wide world without a friend to walk by his side. He took the wrong way. Which will you take?

Thanks for the mushroom.
The way to make a start—step off of a log.
The way to raise your child—the milky way.
The way to make your mark—fall in a mud hole.
Well, my dear, how did you like the sermon?
Oh—it was so good. But did you see that bonnet?
There was ice Monday on the railroad bridges.
The frost has not as yet killed the tomato vines.
Fresh pork sold the other day at 12½ a hind quarter.
A picnic on the mountains was a nice time with the school girls last Friday.
Pogue has a hay press under a shed 100 feet long and is going to pack hay and ship it.
There are some rats in this place that partake of the size of squirrels and are as old as Methusalem.
The mayor is enforcing the laws. We publish a town ordinance that liquor dealers ought to read.
Mr. Smith, the new Presbyterian pastor has just taken charge of the church and preached last Sunday out at Fairfield.
The town graveyard has been weeded out, but for a hundred years they have been burying there and it's about filled up.
There are 14 prisoners in the town jail—me of them a white man. Sheriff Turner feeds them well and makes a humane custodian.
Dr. Hooker has had a stage erected in Masonic Hall and the place is now ready for entertainments.
Let the talent of our young people be put to work.
Capt. Berry has struck down another cave across the street. Twelve feet down its sides were lined with rock nicely cemented. What was it?
Why is a mosquito with one drop of blood like a country paper on its last legs? Because it has a small circulation. P. S. Give us credit for this, will you?
The farmers of this section are sowing wheat that is—those of them who are ready. A good many of them are hardly through sowing oats and gathering their corn.
A bundle of rags was shipped from this point to W. B. Allegre at Forestville that was done up in an old counterpane with the name of Susan G. Fausett worked on it and dated 1813.
A ku klux hat was found on the mountains the other day by a party of young lady picnickers from the Misses Nax & Miss Kellock's school. It was near the rock sock and had written on it "beware of the ku klux."

When you go to the Fair in Danville don't forget Wood's eating house, or McCully's princely Gem Saloon. Or that elegant furniture and furnishing house of Messrs Hickson and Tyack.
TOBACCO has been rolling in at HOLLAND'S WAREHOUSE.
GO TO "THE BALLAD" in Richmond.
ONE SOUL DONE GOOD.—Berkley, Miller & Co., of Norfolk, from advertising in this paper.
THANKSGIVING.—President Grant has set apart the 18th day of November as Thanksgiving Day. Yes, let us thank God for health and old clothes. That is more than many of us deserve.
ON FIRE!—One of the belles of Bedford county in Virginia has eloped with a married man. She was the daughter of a respectable citizen. So says the Bedford Sentinel.

"O father, father!" screamed a son of the patient, who was looking on, "do anything else, but don't let them tap you." "But, Sammy," said the father, "it will do me good, and I shall live many a year after to make you happy." "No, father, you won't. There never was anything tapped in our house that lasted longer than a week."

Mother wants to know if you won't please to lend her your preserving kettle, 'cause she wants to do up some apple sauce. "I would with pleasure, boy, but the truth is, the last time we lent it to your mother she preserved it so effectually that we have not seen it since." "Well, you needn't be sorry about your old kettle. Guess it was full of holes when we borrowed it, and mother wouldn't have troubled you again, only we see'd you bring home a new one."

Gard Scaps.

Sow small grain in October.

A little soil from the chimney will suit the early cucumbers and non-suit the bugs. Hen manure is one of the most valuable fertilizers. To keep it, it should be mixed with leached ashes, or soil, in equal quantities.

It is advisable, in the construction of poultry houses, to use pine lumber—the more pitch it contains the better, as this is offensive to poultry vermin.

It is agreed that fields destined to grass should have two plowings. It is suggested that if one plowing were a foot deep the fields would remain much longer in grass.

Whoever has, or can conveniently obtain wood ashes, let him be sure and sow broadcast by hand, ten bushels per acre on his wheat field at the time of sowing the seed.

Any person having a few minutes to spare, is respectfully requested to send them to our office, where they will be thankfully received. "Time is money," and every little helps.

When stock is pastured it should be kept in the field, within easy access to the cattle. It can be bought in large lumps weighing from ten to twenty pounds. In this shape it does not dissolve rapidly, and the cattle can get a lick whenever they wish. It is also an economical way of salting stock.

None but the plowman knows the advantage of having a bright plow. The writer has tried a great many articles to prevent plows and other agricultural implements from rusting. There is nothing so good as patent axle grease. I have used tallow, paint and Japan varnish, but the axle grease is always convenient and easily applied.

At a recent meeting of the New Farmers' Club a basket of sweet potatoes was shown in a perfect state of preservation, which were grown in 1867. The owner said the potatoes were dug in October, dried the sun during the day and taken to the cellar in barrels. "Here the barrels are placed in proximity to the heater, where there is a temperature, through fall and winter, of about 7 or 80 degrees, but no fire is kept up during the summer season."

If you plow down your weeds before they root to seed they will prove a benefit to your land instead of a curse. If they are allowed to go to seed they will be a source of endless trouble. Plowed under, they are worth as much as a dressing of manure. Beside enriching the soil they tend to keep it loose. If you add from twenty-five to fifty bushels of lime per acre to the ground, and harrow it in, it will convert your weeds into plant food.

Hog Cholera.—John Reed of Missouri gives it as his opinion in Prairie Farmer, that this is a disease of the lungs. The first symptoms is a cough, and as the disease progresses the subjects breathe with difficulty, and finally seem to choke to death, or, in the worst form, bleed at the nose. Two years ago he had six hogs down with the "cholera," very badly. He saved all but one. This one he examined very carefully, and could find no sign of disease, except in the lungs, which were full of small, white spots of matter, about the size of pin heads. The hog had choked to death. He had fed the six hogs, with copperas, sulphur and assafetida.

Spice.

When Patrick first tried peaches, he said he liked the flavor, but the seeds lay hard on his stomach.

An undertaker having apartments to let posted his bills upon the coffin in the window, announcing, "lodgings for single gentlemen."

A colored lady boasting the other day of the progress made by her son in arithmetic, exultingly said, "He is in the mortification table."

One of the Salt Lake Saints has for three of his wives a grandmother, mother and daughter, in this way avoiding the unpleasantness of a mother-in-law.

"Miss Julia allow me to chase those blind; the glare of the sun must be oppressive."

You are very kind sir, but I would rather have a little sun than no hair at all.

A dandy's account of a sermon: "Well, sabbath, de sermon was upon de miracles of de law and de fishes. De minister said he sabbath 7,000 loaves and de 5,000 fishes divided between de twelve apostles; an' de miracle was dat dey didn't bust."

A miss, who felt slighted at having received no invitation to a neighbor's party, on meeting a daughter of the deceased said to her: "We shall probably have a funeral at our house one of these days, and you may rest assured you won't be invited."

Daniel Webster wrote, after continued provocation, to the editor of a newspaper which referred to his private affairs, and especially to his not paying his debts. He said substantially: "It is true that I have not always paid my debts punctually, and that I owe money. One cause of this is that I have not pressed those who owe me for pay. As an instance of this I enclose your father's note, made to me thirty years ago, for money lent to educate his boys."

NEGRO RANSOMER.—Hon. Sancho Brown, negro member of the South Carolina Legislature, lately got disgusted at the spread of the style of speaking indulged in by a white member and delivered himself thus: "Sah, I jist wish to ax dis house if dey is gwine to low de gemplin, wet am now tuk his seat, for to stan on de de ob dis semblage, and spread hisself af de conglomerative wisdom of Souf Carolinay, wid dat turn, ob-decrank-ob-unihersity-style, which de gemplin is in de hobit of totin out on ebery cation when de house horns him wid a hark. I tells de house dat I disgust dat gemplin's manner his superfluous and expensive."

TO THOSE SUFFERING WITH PULMONARY DISEASE.

DR. THOMAS H. MILES, continues to treat Thoracic diseases by Topical Medication, or Catarrh of the air passages, dependent upon appropriate general remedies, as practiced by the late Prof. Green, of New York. The success attending this method of treating diseases of the lungs, is unparalleled, and the feasibility of the operation generally conceded. This treatment is shown a specific Bronchitis, Laryngitis, Incipient Tuberculosis and Asthma. Numerous testimonials can be adduced from those who have been entirely relieved by the operation. His address is Mount Carmel, Halifax county, Va.

Near Vancey's, Co. 100, N. C.

April, 1869.

This is to certify that I have been suffering for several years with chronic Bronchitis; attended with all the symptoms of Incipient Consumption; during this period, I had frequent hemorrhages from the lungs. I also suffered greatly from enlarged Throat. I tried the usual remedies in such cases, but without satisfactory results. I finally concluded to try Dr. Miles' treatment of catarrh of the air passages by injection. I remained under his treatment for six weeks, and I say that I believe my lungs are entirely relieved. I will say that extension of the lungs added greatly to my relief. I most cheerfully recommend this treatment to all persons similarly afflicted.
